

DOGLOGIC || CANINE EDUCATION

DogLogic – Canine Education

Policy for allowing Bitches in Heat to classes.

Our aim is to ensure that all who train at DogLogic receive a positive training experience. This experience should enhance your future relationship with your dog. This policy has been formulated in order to further that aim.

“In season” bitches will be allowed in classes throughout their season, providing that there are no entire dogs present in that class.

If entire dogs are present in class, “in season” bitches will be allowed in classes during the first and last weeks of their season.

Handlers of “in season” bitches will be welcome to come to class during the second week of their bitch’s heat without their dog.

In agility classes, “in season” bitches will refrain from sitting on contact equipment or tables if they are bleeding.

The use of protective diapers is recommended in all classes.

There can be no refund of class fees due to bitches coming into season.

Date: October 2012